Potential museum interior.

Trimontium trust news

As the new year progresses the work of The Trimontium Trust in Melrose gathers pace as we move closer to a summer opening of our new museum in The Ormiston. The updated and redesigned museum will tell the unique story of the Romans in the Borders the local Iron Age population. It will place the Trimontium objects at the heart of the community with newly displayed material, objects and associated archaeological finds.

A series of walks, talks, family activities and supporting activities will run alongside the opening and into 2022. If you are keen to know more visit our website (www.trimontium.co.uk) or contact us on info@trimontium.co.uk.

we have had to sacrifice so many things, visit families, meeting for holding Guild meetings going to church. It is very difficult and work for many but our sacrifice come willingly because sooner or later we will get back to some of normality. Good make sacrifices for and sacrifices in practice Christian faith. We our lives daily as well with the impact of sacrifice for us. As near to the season and Easter we receive the ultimate sacrifice our Lord did on for each and every How deep the Faith for us, How vast measure.
